

April 2006—Indiana National and State Register Listings

Huntingburg Commercial Historic District

Roughly bounded by Geiger, 4th, Jackson, and Market Streets
Huntingburg

The district meets Criteria A and C, for its association with the commercial development of Huntingburg, and Criterion C for its architecture. The district is distinctive for its intact cast-iron storefronts and metal architectural details.

Thomas J. Lewis House

105 S. Arnold St.
Roann

The Lewis House meets Criterion C, as one of the best examples of Queen Anne architecture in Roann. There is only one other comparable house in town, in terms of size and detail. This house retains all the major characteristics of the Queen Anne style, both on the exterior and on the interior.

Samuel Brown House

1558 East County Road 1100 North
Roachdale

When published in 1982, the Putnam County Interim Report identified the Brown House as “outstanding.” The house has significance under Criterion A, for the property’s association with settlement in Franklin Township of Putnam County. Several alterations make the house a less viable candidate for Criterion C for architecture.

Morgantown Historic District

4 1/2 blocks centered on Washington St., between Marion St and east of Church St

Morgantown

The Morgan County Preservation Society was awarded HPF funding by the DHPA to assist in the preparation of this application. The district comprises the commercial core of Morgantown, reflecting its trends in commerce and transportation. The application also discusses building materials particular to the district.
